KENTUCKY TRACKS MERGED

Deal Completed for the Transfer of Latonia and Douglas Park.

All of the Four Major Tracks to Become the Property of the Kentucky Jockey Club.

LEXINGTON, Ky., January 31.—Within the next thirty days the Kentucky Jockey Club, a $2,000,000 corporation, articles for which shortly will be filed with the secretary of state at Frankfort, will be the owner of the race tracks at Lexington, Louisville and Latonia, and racing here at Churchill Downs and Latonia next spring will be under its auspices. The underwriters for the new corporation are former United States Senator Johnson N. Camden, Edward F. Simms, Edward R. Bradley, Jerome B. Respess, Thomas A. Combs and Robert L. Baker. Senator Thomas A. Combs, who is handling the deal for these underwriters, has options on the Lexington track of the Kentucky Association and the Churchill Downs track of the New Louisville Jockey Club, which will be exercised as soon as the titles and the deeds to the Latonia and Douglas Park plants are examined and passed and the remainder of the $850,000 is paid to the Latonia Jockey Club and Douglas Park Jockey Club stockholders.

The intention is to offer the stock for sale throughout the State of Kentucky, with the understanding that its earning capacity is limited to ten per cent and that no man can hold more than five per cent of the stock. It is the purpose of the organizers of the Kentucky Jockey Club to take commercialism and politics out of racing in this state and to conduct the sport as nearly as possible for the improvement of the breed of horses. It is believed here that Pat J. Hanlon, prominent Louisville business man, will be selected as president of the Kentucky Jockey Club.

Senator Combs is receiving the congratulations of scores of men and women who are interested in the preservation of the thoroughbred horse industry and in the sport of racing upon the purchase of the Latonia and Douglas Park plants, which has made possible the realization of their hopes and expectations.

NO RACING AT DOUGLAS PARK.

It is understood here that there will be no racing at Douglas Park next spring. The dates allotted to that track will be given to Churchill Downs and Latonia. The purses at each of the three points are to be materially increased, there having already been presented to the State Racing Commission a recommendation to that end.

The completion of the deal for the transfer of the Kentucky tracks is one of the most important things that ever happened in connection with racing in this country. For one thing, it gives control of all Kentucky tracks to Kentuckians, a circumstance pleasing to state pride, but of no great concern to racing people of other states. In the turf world at large the hope will prevail that the new controllers of Kentucky racing will adminster its affairs with wisdom and liberality, maintain its present attractions unimpaired and provide new ones.

Concretely their hope will be that if Douglas Park is to pass into the realm of things that have been the Kentucky Handicap will not be abolished also, but will be preserved in its present status as the most valuable handicap of the United States for three-year-olds and over. Likewise that John Hachmeister's announcement of the doubling of the added money to the Latonia Derby will be adhered to, as a commendable measure of progress and an allurement that owners of good three-year-olds elsewhere will find themselves unable to resist. Such events loom large in the public imagination and draw more patronage than a hundred one thousand dollar purses would. It is well to bear in mind that in all probability Kentucky racing will have to compete with Canadian racing next spring, and it will be found essential to maintain its present attractions at least.

In the meantime, while turfmen will await the development of the racing policies of the Kentucky Jockey Club with curiosity, they will not be slow about congratulating the gentlemen who have brought a momentous transaction to completion, over the entire success of their endeavors.

CONSISTENT THE BLUE DUKE AGAIN

Scores His Fourth Victory of Havana Meeting in Atlantic Handicap—Double for Marrone Stable.

HAVANA, Cuba, January 31.—J. J. Timmerman's three-year-old, The Blue Duke, scored his fourth victory of the meeting at Oriental Park when he beat the favorite, Major Domo, by a head this afternoon in the Atlantic Handicap, the feature of today's program. The Blue Duke came from behind in a driving finish and just got up in the final strides. This was The Blue Duke's third victory in succession in ten starts at this meeting. He was unplaced but once, and then in an all-aged handicap. He was asked to concede lumps of weight to some old horses.

The J. Marrone stable scored a double today when Santiago and Fustian won, both being ridden by Jockey Troise. Both horses just managed to last long enough to win by the smallest margains. Fustian paid the handsome dividend of $64.20 in the mutuels. Dragon Rock, the winner of the fifth race, paid $35.40 in the machines.

Godfrey Preece leaves shortly for Santiago at the request of President Menocal to help coach the military polo team in the barracks at that city for the coming polo tournament to be held in Cuba.

Senor A. H. Diaz has retired the filly Lady Matchmaker to the stud, and she wil probably be bred to Orestes.

Kingfisher was claimed yesterday by G. M. Ridge for $850 after being beaten in yesterday's race.

AMERICAN JOCKEY FOR KING OF SPAIN

LEXINGTON, Ky., January 31.—Lucien Lyne, the noted American jockey, who has been riding abroad for several years, announced this afternoon that he has signed a new contract to be chief jockey for King Alfonso of Spain. He leaves here tomorrow for Madrid.

MANY HORSES AT HOT SPRINGS

EXTERMINATOR AMONG RECENT ARRIVALS—ETERNAL PICTURE OF HEALTH—THE WANDERER MAY BE SENSATION OF THE YEAR—TWO-YEAR-OLDS MANY AND PROMISING

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., January 31.—Henry McDaniel has arrived here with six of Willis Sharpe Kilmer's horses, including Exterminator, the Kentucky Derby winner of last year; Mormon, a three-year-old by Ogden, and the four maiden three-year-olds Amstello, Vancouver, Tyranny and Baigneur. Mr. McDaniel, who is the chief trainer of the Kilmer stable, says that the great Sun Briar is at Sun Briar Court and will serve a few mares this spring, after which he will be put into training for the Saratoga meeting in August. The Kilmer two-year-olds, seven in number, are also at the Binghamton farm and will not be raced before July 1.

There are several stables here at Oaklawn Park, the largest and most important being J. W. McClelland's nineteen, seventeen of which are two-year-olds, and seldom if ever has anyone seen so many good looking youngsters in one string. The bay or brown colt, by Sweep—Ethel Pace, is supposed to be the bright particular star of the band, and being a half-brother to Housemaid and Alfred Noble, by the leading two-year-old sire, Sweep, he has every right to be highly regarded. A big bay colt, by Great Britain—Crystal Maid, and a brown, by Sea King, dam the good mare Queen Dixon, are extra good lookers and can run. The latter is a colt of exceptionally good action.

Eternal looks remarkably well, and his coat glistens with perfect health, like most horses show in June. He has not grown much, however, still he is large enough, and being so symetrically built his appearance is somewhat deceptive.

The Wanderer has grown wonderfully and is a grand looking individual and considered by many good judges superior in appearance to Eternal. A big bodied horse on short legs, he looks to have the robust constitution of his great half-brother Roamer. It is extremely doubtful if there was a two-year-old last year possessed of the wonderful speed of The Wanderer. He was improving every day up to the time of his retirement, and as he has grown and improved so much in appearance his trainer expects him to be the peer of any three-year-old in America the coming season. Good judges do not consider Patterson extravagant, in this instance, at least. The Wanderer will be a great three-year-old and a credit to his distinguished half-brother. He may be the sensation of the year.

W. F. Martin has fourteen, including Bulse and Midway, the property of J. L. Parrish of Kentucky. Both look big and lusty, as does Valor and the two-year-olds. Midway is one of the best handicap horses in the country and twice defeated Cudgel last year, once at Saratoga and again at Laurel. Blind Justice, by Fair Play—Trance, is a handsome big three-year-old colt.

Dick Vestal is a recent arrival from Texas and brought twelve youngsters with him. They are owned by Dr. Clark, and are mostly by Meelick, Leonid and Everett, a son of Goldcrest and holder of the two mile track record at Pimlico.

Early Wright has eight two-year-olds, the property of G. W. Wingfield of Reno, Nevada. Seven of them are by Honeywood, the young Polymelus sire Mr. Wingfield imported from England. They are a good average band. It is to be hoped they will meet with a full measure of success, as Mr. Wingfield has been a most liberal patron of racing and has brought over some high-class brood mares and sires from England during the last few years.

R. J. Mackenzie has two fine colts by his favorite racer Buckhorn, a son of Broomstick and Thirty Third. These are the first of the progeny of Buckhorn, a good horse that died too young.

Another recent arrival is George Zeigler with an even dozen of the Beverwyck Stable's horses from Saratoga, headed by the game and consistent campaigner Old Koenig, a useful horse of stake caliber; Ima Frank and nine three-year-olds comprise the others of this string. Lady Beverwyck is by The Manager—Applause, and was a highly tried yearling and a filly of great promise.

C. E. Mickelwaite has five here in charge of Charley Borel, the jockey who piloted Omar Khayyam in the Kentucky Derby.

It is safe to say that with the meeting here more than a month off, there are more high-class horses quartered at Oaklawn Park than were ever here before. Some of these juveniles are sure to develop into stars of the turf. The track is in excellent condition and as well if not better kept than any course in America, due to the energetic and intelligent supervision of superintendent Harry Schroeder.

GREAT ENGLISH RACES AND HORSES

Impressions of an Expert as to St. Simon's Supreme Quality in Racing.

Since my first visit to Epsom and Blair Athol's Derby in 1877 I have seen many notable contests, but the race which I think impressed me more than anything else in a lifelong experience of the sport was the way in which St. Simon smashed up Tristan and three others for the Gold Cup at Ascot in 1884, writes Audax in Horse and Hound. This was the only occasion I saw St. Simon run, but I then came to the conclusion he was the greatest race horse I had seen up to that time, and after a lapse of thirty-four years I still retain the same opinion.

Of course, comparisons between horses of different generations can only be a matter of conjecture, and there are many people who would place another unbeaten racer, Ormonde, which was two years younger than St. Simon, as the best. Fred Archer, however, who was in a position to know, as he had ridden both and was a splendid judge in addition to being a magnificent jockey, once told me he was convinced St. Simon would have beaten Ormonde over any distance, and that Galopin's son, whose nervous energy was so wonderful, was the best horse he ever rode. Whether Archer's estimate was correct or not, of course, cannot be proved, but there are occasions when a public test shows the respective merits of horses of different years. For instance, Ormonde in the Hardwicke Stakes at Ascot in 1886 showed how greatly superior he was to Melton, the best three-year-old of 1885, and in 1887, when he gave twenty-five pounds to Kilwarlin and treated him like a hack in the Rous Memorial Stakes on the same race course, he illustrated plainly that nothing in reason would have brought him and the pick of the three-year-olds of 1887 together. These races I saw, and also that famous struggle for the Hardwicke Stakes, the day after the duke's colt had beaten Kilwarlin six lengths over the new mile, when Ormonde, four years, 136 pounds (Tom Cannon), defeated Minting, four years, 136 pounds (J. Osborne), by a neck, with Bendigo, aged, 138 pounds (J. Watts), three lengths away, and the only other competitor, Phil, three years, 110 pounds, more than a hundred yards behind Mr. Barclay's excellent horse. For all that, Phil was close up fourth, a neck behind Timothy, for the St. Leger, which Kilwarlin, after losing a lot of ground at the start, won by a half length from the Derby winner Merry Hampton—whose first race was the Epsom one—he in turn being a head in front of Timothy.

PROOF OF PUBLIC FORM.

Here we have proof of public form about which there can be no argument, and another instance was when Ard Patrick and Sceptre, much the best of the 1902 three-year-olds, showed in the Eclipse Stakes how vastly better they were on the weight-for-age scale to Rock Sand, the Triple Crown champion of 1903. This form Sceptre later on once more demonstrated conclusively to be correct in the Jockey Club Stakes, as, although giving fifteen pounds to Rock Sand at Newmarket, as against nine pounds at Sandown, and with the latter, on which odds of 5 to 4 were laid, having the services of great Danny Maher, as against Hardy on the filly, she beat him easily indeed by four lengths. This was a length more than was the judge's verdict between the pair at Sandown, when Ard Patrick, on which Otto Madden rode the race of his life, beat Sceptre (Hardy) by a neck; but I shall always think that in his excitement over this great struggle dear old judge Robinson underestimated the distance separating Sceptre and Rock Sand on the Esher slopes and that it was much nearer six lengths than three. Moreover, although Alec Taylor had got Persimmon's renowned daughter wonderfully fit for her Sandown race, she was even better at Newmarket. Coming to quite recent classic racers, I shall always reckon that in the autumn of 1917 Gay Crusader was the best horse I have seen run in England for many years, and certainly superior to the last year's crack, Gainsborough; but as they have not met, and never will, this can only be a matter of opinion. Regarding the last named, he is a lazy horse, while, on the other hand, Gay Crusader was an extremely free-running one. The only line to be obtained between the pair is through Dansellon, which was extremely unlucky not to have won the Cambridgeshire, and on this I should make out Mr. Cox's horse a few pounds the better; but such a margin between a couple of high-class horses means a great deal, as in few of all the Derbys I have witnessed has the victor scored with ten pounds in hand.

LIEUT. G. D. WIDENER'S TWO-YEAR-OLDS

Has Eight Promising Young Horses at Belmont Park in Charge of Trainer A. J. Joyner.

NEW YORK, N. Y., January 31.—Lieut. G. D. Widener has eight two-year-olds at Belmont Park in charge of trainer A. J. Joyner that will carry his silks this year in the juvenile races over the Maryland and New York tracks. Of the foreign-bred youngsters in his string Flying Orb, a bay gelding, by Orby—Phenicia, is said to be quite promising, while Royal Duck is a colt of great size and substance, by Royal Realm—Duckshot. Beck is a son of Troutbeck—Rice Bird and a good looker. End Man is a stout and compactly built son of Black Jester—Sunglow, of rather moderate size, but having all the earmarks of a racer.

The most impressive looking of the foreigners, however, is the daughter of Prince Palatine—Sunshine Girl named L'Orpheline, which has been entered in several important two-year-old fixtures, both at Belmont Park and Saratoga. Royal Duck is also extensively engaged in the rich juvenile events of the eastern tracks, and is held in high esteem by trainer Joyner.

Rambler Rose, a chestnut daughter of Garry Herrmann—Rose d'Or, is the best looking of the home-breds, and must have impressed Mr. Joyner favorably, as she is entered in a number of valuable and highly important stakes. White Sox is another home-bred of promise, being a son of Garry Herrmann—Navarre's Hope, of good size and quality. The last of the band is Dickie, by Garry Herrmann—Ambrosia, a handsome chestnut filly of more than ordinary promise.

Besides the two-year-olds Mr. Widener has the good four-year old Lanius, also Abadane, Mistake, Picton and Kwo-ne-Shee to carry his colors in races for horses of more matured age.

ROYCE ROOLS IN A CANTER

Takes the Main Fair Grounds Race by Many Lengths.

Eulah F. Benefits Through Troxler's Good Riding—Obolus and Parrish Banished.

NEW ORLEANS, La., January 31.—Surprises were again plentiful at the Fair Grounds this afternoon, and with the exception of Royce Rools not a favorite succeeded in leading their opponents to the finish. Some of the winners came from unexpected quarters, and the changed going was held mostly to blame for upsets. Riders continued to guide their mounts for the outer ridge, despite the fact that the footing near the inner rail, particularly through the stretch, was just as solid, and several who took advantage of the ground-saving process landed their mounts in front. Cloudy and cool weather and a difficult offering did not seem to cut much of a figure toward the reduction of the attendance, for a big patronage was on hand. The racing was closer than usual and finishes highly exciting.

Royce Rools accounted for the feature purse at one mile, in which he met some fairly good opposition, and at one time it appeared as if he would be beaten, for he was far back. When straightened for the stretch racing he came with a sensational sprint and passed Grayson and Cobalt Lass to win in a canter. Koh-i-Noor, which was held in high esteem in the race but refused to extend herself, wound up with Opportunity in the rear.

The first time starter Rainbow Division and Oleaster were thought to be the best of the two-year-olds that opened the day's sport, but Eulah F., under Troxler's energetic riding, won in the last stride from Rainbow Division. Oleaster might have been the winner had Ensor ridden her in different fashion. Ensor departs for the east tomorrow.

The bad band that started in the second race enabled Ringleader to earn a purse when he outstayed Water Willow and Vision.

Billie B. showed his best form in the third race and won from Sybil and Jessie C. J. Cuddan, represented by Kittiwake in the race, claimed Sybil for $900.

Dioscoride furnished the upset in the fifth race, which he won easily from Lottery and Lybian Sands. Amelita, one of the starters in the race, went back to her former stable, John C. Ferriss claiming her for $1,600.

Willdo added to the surprises when he won the sixth race in a close finish with Foxy Griff and Don Dodge and the final dash went to Indolence in easy fashion, with Lucky R. and Scourgeman following.

BUSY MORNING FOR OFFICIALS.

This morning was a busy one for the officials here and, after their session, Obolus and Parrish, two horses that have been showing marked inconsistency, were banished from further participation in racing here, secretary McLennan having been instructed not to take their entries in future.

S. A. Clopton has sold Happy Go Lucky to J. Marino on private terms.

The Fair Grounds management is making elaborate preparations for tomorrow, which will be a gala day, the race for army officers being the attraction. Prominent state and city officials, as well as prominent military persons, will be at the track to view the race. The officers and their guests, representing Camp Beauregard, arrived this afternoon and were at the course. The party includes General Hodges, a veteran who recently returned from France, and Captain Dunne, who is in command of the officers from Camp Shelby who will ride in the race, and is due tonight. With them will come Colonel Hutchins, Colonel Bayless, Major Taylor, Major Conner, Major Campbell and others.

A section of the clubhouse has been set aside and it will be appropriately decorated for the occasion. Governor Pleasant is expected to be on hand, as well as Mayor Behrman. The winning rider of the race will be given a handsome solid silver cup.

Corporal Frank J. Ortel, the well-known racing reporter, who is with the American Expeditionary Forces in Germany, writes that he expects to return to America soon. Others who are in Germany with the colors included D. Christian, who raced horses here last winter and who writes that he will buy some more when mustered out.

Edward "Snapper" Garrison is among the latest arrivals and will stay for the remainder of the racing.

The Jefferson Park management is going steadily on with its improvements, and aims to have them completed for the opening of their ten days' meeting beginning March 5.

JOHN HACHMEISTER DECIDES TO RETIRE

CINCINNATI, O., January 31.—John Hachmeister, the popular and successful manager of the Douglas Park and Latonia race tracks, is going to retire from the turf. After the completion of the sale of the above-mentioned tracks, Mr. Hachmeister announced that he had decided to go out with the old regime.

"The purchasers asked me to continue with them for the time being at least," remarked Mr. Hachmeister last night, "but I decided to go out with the old regime. I have been in the saddle at Latonia for about twelve years, and believe I am entitled to a rest. I have nothing in view and do not expect to do anything for a year. No, I am through with racing. If I ever return it will be as a horse owner. The purchasers asked me to continue in my present capacity for a time at least, but I preferred to get out now. I appreciate their kind offer and will be here to assist them in any way I can."

DARK LEGEND'S INDIAN DOUBLE EVENT

Dark Legend, the five-year-old son of Dark Ronald—Golden Legend, by Amphion, recently brought off the Indian double event of the King Emperor's Cup and the Viceroy's Cup. The first named contest is run over a mile, while the distance of the other is one and three-quarter miles, and in each case Magyar, which won the King Emperor's Cup in 1917 and a few days later was third to Kiltoi and Politian in the other race, was second. Dark Legend, which now belongs to J. C. Gaulstaun, was bred by Sir William Cooke. Gaulstaun is a Hindoo and the big man in Indian racing. He is said to have paid $60,000 for Dark Legend, which was bought for $35,000 in England some eighteen months ago. Fairy Gold, Dark Legend's great granddam, is the dam of Friar Rock, which John E. Madden bought from Major Belmont.

SIBERIAN RIVERS GLUTTED WITH FISH

Enormous Supply of Salmon Never Fails—Careful Taking the Chief Reason.

If natural conditions are favorable and if there is no interference by man with the process of reproduction, fish, and escepially salmon, tend to increase until the rivers into which they run can hardly hold them. Some years ago I made a journey of 600 miles on horseback through the peninsula of Kamchatka on the eastern coast of Asia. As I rode northward from Petropavlovsk to the head of the Okhotsk Sea in August and September, I crossed perhaps a hundred rivers or brooks running either into that sea or into the Pacific Ocean. To say that these streams were full of salmon would be an under-statement. They were literally gorged and choked with them. Tens of thousands were coming in with every tide and struggling up-stream to their spawning places. They were so plentiful that you could not only take from 100 to 200 at every haul of a seine, but in the smaller streams you could wade into the shallow water and throw them out with your hands; twelve or fifteen pound fish might be seen struggling up brooks that you could step across where the water was hardly deep enough to float them. Dogs caught them in their mouths—I have seen them do it—and even the clumsy bear managed to secure one when he was hungry or when he was tired of blueberries and wanted a change of diet. In September we sometimes rode an hour or two after it began to grow dark before we could find a brook whose water was not so contaminated by the dead and decaying bodies of salmon as to be unfit for use. Everywhere the natives were catching them by thousands in seines for winter use.

NORTHERN SIBERIA'S PLENTY.

All the people of northeastern Siberia practically live all the year round on fresh or dried salmon, and not only that, but they feed thousands of sledge dogs on them. Has the supply ever failed? Never within the memory of man. For more than a century the people have been taking hundreds of tons of salmon out of those Siberian rivers every year, and yet the stock remains undiminished. I remember one little stream in Kamchatka which for more than 100 years has been producing salmon enough to feed a dozen villages of from 200 to 500 people each, to say nothing of some 3,000 sledge dogs which live on dried fish the year round. Why does this river continue to produce salmon at such a rate for a whole century? Is it because the Pacific Ocean contained originally more than the Atlantic, so that there were more to run into the Pacific coast rivers? History does not so state. Two centuries ago there were just as many in the rivers of Nova Scotia and New England. The Merrimac River of Massachusetts and New Hampshire was so filled with them that "the salmon nearest the banks were crowded out on the dry land." In the Connecticut River there were so many that, as Peters quaintly says in his History of Connecticut, "no finite being could number them." As late as 1783 the people of Connecticut derived half their supply of food from this source, and hired laborers, working under contract, stipulated that they should not be compelled to eat salmon more than so many days a week.

ASIATIC FISHING WITHOUT WASTE.

If, therefore, we now have only a few salmon, while the northern Asiatics have an abundance, it is not because there were more in the Pacific than in the Atlantic. It is because civilized man has never allowed a sufficient number to reach their breeding grounds, while uncivilized man has always given them free access to their spawning places and has thus kept up the stock. In both New England and Nova Scotia rivers were obstructed by dams, weirs and standing nets and the water was polluted by sawdust and the waste products of manufactories. In Siberia there were none of these things to prevent the fish from getting to their spawning places. The Siberian natives never used standing nets, either in the streams or along the coasts. They caught all they wanted by hauling seines in the rivers while the salmon were coming in, and during a part of every day and the whole of every night the fish were allowed to pass unchecked and unhindered. Standing nets, wherever placed, work all the time, while seines or rods and lines are in use only a part of the time and leave the rivers and the coastal waters unobstructed and undisturbed during one-half at least of every day.

By wasteful methods of fishing and by catching as many as possible, regardless of the annual rate of increase, we have reduced the number of our salmon until in many of our streams there are none at all, while even in the Margaree there are not one-quarter as many as there ought to be. What have we done and what are we doing to remedy this state of things?—Geo. Kennan in Sports Afield.

FISHIN' SONS OF "ZEBBERDEE"

The Philosophy of a Colored Fisherman Who Knew What He Wanted.

In a delightful sketch, "Fishing for Black Bass," in the American Angler, Dr. J. A. Henshell tells of the philosophy of a colored angler in this way:

Drifting along in a boat one day on Lake Buelah fly-fishing for large mouth bass, I happened to float near an old colored brother sitting on a cypress stump still-fishing for crappie. Every little while he would jerk one out much larger than his broad, black hand, always with some word of satisfaction, as "Cum in outen de wet, mister speckel perch and jine you' breddern in de baskit." He had been watching me out of the corner of his eye for some little time, and as I drifted near him he could curb his curiosity no longer as he said: "Wat kina bait you-all usin', Boss?" "Artificial flies," I replied. "Luk to me lak fedders," he rejoined. "Yes," I assented, "they are partly made of feathers." "Well, Boss, I don't tink de speckel perch laks dat kina vittals; bettah had sum o' my minnies I scoop outen de levee pit dis mornin'; you shore is welcum to 'em." "Thank you, Uncle, but I'm fishin' for black bass." "Wat kina bass is dat? I ketch yaller bass and wite bass outen de ribber, but I hain't nebber seed no black 'uns." "You call them trout, Uncle." "Oh, yaas, I shore knows de trout; I dun seed an ole lunker jump out after a snake doctah (dragon fly) a wile ago ober dar by de yonkerpins (lotus lilies)." "Guess I'll have a try for him," I said. Thereupon he exclaimed: "Bettah not try it, Boss; dem big trout's jus' natcherly bad and verashus, and dat ole snollegoster 'ud snash yo' lil' pole lak a bulrush!"

When I began casting along the lotus lilies he seemed much interested and said: "I bin scared to deff eber since I seed dat big trout dat he'd cum nosin' roun' my minny; I wudn't min' if I wus fixed fur 'em, but perch fixin' ain't in it wid dat old wah-hoss; I feel jus' lak ole niggah Jake." "How's that?" I asked. "Well, ole Jake dun goes fishin' mos' ebry day in de week and Sunday, too; an' he allus goes fixed fur de kina fish he's arter. One day, down at de ribber he wus fishin' fo' catfish; de fust fish he cot wus a monstrus big trout. He tuk it offen de hook kina keerful an' easy lak and put it back in de ribber, and sed: 'Mistah trout, you cum back heah next Sat'day and I'll be glad to see you, but I'm fishin' fur catfish today; an' wen I goes cattin', I goes cattin'.' So you see, Boss, wen I goes perchin', I goes perchin', case I'm not fixed for trout."

It was not long before the "ole lunker" rose to my fly, and I hooked him securely. He leaped repeatedly and made the water boil furiously for a few minutes. The old negro forgot his crappie and was an excited spectator of the fray, and exclaimed: "Luk out, Boss, he's mekken' fo' de yonkerpins! My grief! see dat lil' pole ben' and twis'!" And as I drew the fish into the landing net, he said: "Bress my soul, Boss, dat wus de bes' fight I ebber see sence Kurnel Jim Jones' houns licked the splav-foot bar down in de canebrake!"

As I took up the oars preparing to row away, I said: Good-by, Uncle; we've had a good time!" "We shore has," he replied. "Good-by, Boss; but Ise not yo' uncle, Ise yo' ekal; wese bofe fishin' sons o' Zebberdee!"

FISHING AND HUNTING NOTES

The hawk can fly 200 miles an hour unaided by the wind.

Five hundred thousand shotguns are manufactured in the United States yearly.

A fortune of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000, amassed in dealing in buffalo hides before the bison disappeared from the plains, is disposed of in the will of William C. Lobenstein, filed recently.

Rabbit hunting eighty feet below the surface of the ground was the experience of George Williams, mine boss at Crawford No. 12 mine at Brazil, Ind. When Williams was preparing to leave the mine after a day's work he noticed a rabbit sitting beside the bottom of the shaft. Using a carbide lamp he blinded the rabbit and easily captured it.
